→ SPACE-ENABLED SERVICES TO TACKLE ENVIRONMENTAL CRIMES

Environmental crime is the fourth largest criminal enterprise in the world and is a growing threat to peace, security, and sustainability. The European Space Agency is offering technical support and funding to companies developing innovative and commercial space-enabled services to tackle environmental crimes.

Key areas of interest include:

Crimes Affecting Environmental Quality

- Illegal land pollution, especially illegal waste dumping, waste burning and waste exporting
- Water-related crimes like water fraud, illicit water contamination and water theft
- Manipulation of carbon credits, and illegal emissions of hazardous gases.

Crimes Affecting Wildlife

- Poaching and the unlawful trade of flora and fauna

Crimes Damaging Natural Resources

- Illegal logging and charcoal trafficking
- Illegal, unreported and unregulated (IUU) fishing
- Illegal mining
